Secret Marriage Made Public
in Princeton Kentucky.

Interesting Notes From Everywhere
in the Kentucky
District.

NEWSY BUT NOTHING STARTLING

From Saturday's daily.

MARRIAGE AT CLINTON.

Clinton, Oct. 5.—The marriage of Mr. T. D. Thomas, a well known engineer, to Miss Maggie Henderson of Hickman, is announced to take place October 10. Miss Henderson is a popular and accomplished young lady and has many friends in Clinton. She is the daughter of Mr. J. M. Henderson.

ARRESTED AT FULTON.

Fulton, Ky., Oct. 5.—W. H. Kilgore, a prominent farmer, residing near Union Church, six miles from Fulton, was arrested Thursday night by Marshal L. O. Robinson of this city.

Kilgore is charged with stealing a hog from Van O'Neal, another prominent planter. Mr. Kilgore was given a preliminary hearing and found guilty. He was placed under a $200 bond for appearance at the circuit court in January. He gave as a forfeit $200 in cash.

Several days ago Mr. O'Neal placed a number of his hogs in a pasture adjoining Kilgore's residence, and the first of the week he missed one of the sows. He at once suspected Kilgore, and came to Fulton and notified the sheriff. Mr. Stubbins, being unable to attend to the case, notified Marshal Robinson, who left in the afternoon with a search warrant.

Upon arriving at Kilgore's residence he searched the place thoroughly. The officer at once found where the hog had been killed and cleaned, and found a portion of it skinned and stored away. The head, with O'Neal's mark on it, was found, and also a place where the hair had been burned, and blood on the smokehouse floor.

A SECRET MARRIAGE.

Princeton, Oct. 5.—The announcement of a secret marriage which will be quite a surprise to many of the citizens of this city, has been made. The marriage referred to is that of Mr. Milton Fletcher to Miss Emma Hewlett, which occurred in Louisville the 7th day of August, nearly two months ago.

It had been the intention of the young people to keep the marriage a secret for a year but on last Wednesday the bride left to join her husband in Henderson, where he now lives, and it was publicly announced.

Both of these young people are well and favorably known to our citizens.

NEGRO SHOTS HIS WIFE.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 5.—Wesley Hatfield, a colored farm hand, shot his wife in the side, inflicting a very serious wound. Hatfield claims that the shooting was accidental.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED.

Hopkinsville, Oct. 5.—Mrs. M. C. Harris, of Kentucky, South Christian, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Tennie, to Roy P. Smith, of Clarksville. The wedding will take place some time this month.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 5.—J. E. Croft, a prominent merchant of Crofton, was stricken with paralysis last night. His entire right side is paralyzed.

MRS. SARAH GOUGH DEAD.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 5.—Mrs. Sarah A. Gough, proprietor of the Gough hotel, died last night, aged 63 years. She had been sick for two months with inflammation of the stomach.

THE METROPOLIS FERRY.

Metropolis, Oct. 5.—We are still without a permanent ferry at this point, an unexpected hitch having occurred to interrupt its operation. Various stories have been afloat. The following is Chesterfield's side of the case.

The Jessie Wilson, the boat for which Mr. Chesterfield had made a contract did not suit Chesterfield when it arrived here, he claiming that it was not as represented to him. The boat though old, was according to the contract to be placed in a first class condition. When they came to use her it was found that her hull leaked badly and that the engine was not in good order. It would have required three or four hundred dollars to put her in good shape.

The Key City was chartered to take care of the reunion passengers, and as it would be a losing investment to run a chartered boat unit for ferry business he will not attempt to handle the trade until a new boat can be secured. Mr. Chesterfield has gone to Evansville to look at several boats which are offered for sale and will get one as soon as possible to go in the trade here. If he can not find one to suit he will build.

In the meantime the deed to the ferry franchise has not been delivered to Mr. Chesterfield. It is still in the hands of a representative of the business men's association, where it properly belongs, until such time as Mr. Chesterfield carries out his part of the agreement.

MARRIED IN METROPOLIS.

Metropolis, Oct. 5.—Turner Nichols and Miss Sue Shanwell, of Marshall county, Ky., were married Thursday evening by Judge Laggett. They attended the show in Paducah and concluded to come to Metropolis and get married.

These gentlemen are all well known in the county, and are popular in the districts they hope to represent. They will make good races, and the Republicans expect to win in the county, as well as the city in November next.

SNATCHED THE MONEY.

YOUNG MEN FROM LEWISBURG LOSE $5.35.

Maud King, a young man from Lewisburg, lost $5.35 last night on Broadway. He had taken the money out of his pocket to give his brother some change when two men came along and one grabbed him around the body and held him while the other man took the money. They then ran and the boys thinking it useless to report the robbery to the police did nothing.

The facts were given to Officer Tom Orr today at noon at the train when the young men left the city.

BOOKS NOT SIGNED.

THIS MAY CAUSE A CHANGE TO BE MADE IN THE REGISTRATION.

It was discovered this morning that the registration books in Chalk's and Kirkpatrick's two Democratic precincts, in the city, were not signed by the election officers. It is not known what the result will be but the registration in those precincts is understood, can be thrown out, because the law was not complied with. The registration there is: Chalk's, Dem. 141; Rep. 56; Independent, 13. Kirkpatrick's, Dem., 146; Rep. 124; Ind., 10; Sec. 9, and Prohib. 1.

ABOUT THOSE BIG WAVES.

Not larger than usual, but Due to a Boat's Position.

One does not hear nowadays when a steamer has an experience like that of the Teutonic on her last voyage over quite so much talk about "tidal waves" as always resulted from such episodes a few years ago, but even now there seems to be a very general misapprehension as to what happens in these cases, and a still more general misapprehension as to why it happens. In reality it is hardly more exact to speak of "tidal waves" than of "tidal waves" for, though the waves in any given series differ appreciably in size, the difference is rarely if ever enough even to begin to account for the damage that one particular wave among the many harmless ones often does. Officers on the bridge of the Teutonic, despite the sharp watch ahead which they were doubtless keeping, saw no notable aggregation of water approaching them, and the reason they did not was that there was none to see, says the New York Times. What they did notice was a lively sea, with the usual variations in the distance between its elevations and depressions. Then the vessel's speed in ordinary motion, though the form of the wave was, and what "rushing" it there was, beyond the not very fierce inclination of the shipped sea to find its level on the decks, was altogether due to the rushing forward of the steam. The Teutonic's speed in ordinary motion, though the form of the wave was, and what "rushing" it there was, beyond the not very fierce inclination of the shipped sea to find its level on the decks, was altogether due to the rushing forward of the steam.

Roosevelt Anecdotes

Roosevelt Had Hard Luck Too.

"I remember the evening of July 2," says one of Roosevelt's ex-rough riders, "when we were in the San Juan trenches. We were rather shy on provisions about that time, and after figuring a while they made out to give us two pieces of hard-tack each, except four of us, who got only one piece each. We'd made the most we could of our supper, and I was standing by when the colonel came up. The first thing he asked was whether we had had our rations, such as they were. They told him we had."

"All right," he said, "I'll have mine now." And he ate his two pieces of hardtack like the rest of us."

How Roosevelt Rode a Wild Cow.

Theodore Roosevelt was well known in the west long before his rough riders were thought of," says F. C. Hoover, a ranchman of the Big Horn country, Wyoming.

"It was in 1887 that Teddy Roosevelt stopped for a few days at my ranch. He said he had come for big game, and he got it. We were out shooting and ran across a bunch of wild cattle. Teddy could not resist the temptation to rope one. He tried to rope it, but the broncho shied and threw him. The rope went wild, and so did the horse. Roosevelt had ridden some distance from us, and before we could come up one of the cows charged him. We expected, of course, to see his finish right there."

"I had my gun out and was trying to get a shot at the cow when Roosevelt performed the most daring act of his life, not baring his charge up San Juan hill. He dodged the cow when she charged, and before she could turn he made a leap and was on her back. "Then he did show the boys that he could ride. The cow did not know what to make of the performance, and after a pitch or two she started on a dead run down the gulch."

"Teddy stayed with her until she was tired out and we had overtaken them. One of the boys roped the cow, and Roosevelt bounded off, smiling as usual, and the only comment he made was that he had never enjoyed a ride more."

A Letter to "Mr. Teddy."

A fine new church has lately been built by the Baptist society of Shushan, N. Y. The dedication services were held about the time of the inauguration of Roosevelt as governor of New York. A small boy of Shushan, who had reached the mature age of four years, was much interested in the church and, being an observing lad and hearing a good deal of talk about Teddy Roosevelt, sat down one day with pencil and paper and wrote as follows:

Dear Mr. Teddy—We are building a beautiful new church. Won't you please send us 10 cents for it?

CHARLES BOYCE.

The letter was sent by the child's fond parents to the governor, and almost by return mail came an answer from Teddy containing a bright new 10 cent piece and, what was better, many kind words to the letter writer and best wishes for the prosperity of the "beautiful new church."

Roosevelt's Wildest Ride.

One of the picturesque phases of Theodore Roosevelt's succeeding to the office of president was the hunt for him in the Adirondacks when it became known that President McKinley was sinking. Then came his wild journey to Buffalo, every mile of it at breakneck speed.

It began at a great fat rock on the top of Mount Marcy, and that rock is likely to become notable for Mr. Roosevelt was standing on it in the approaching sunset when the guide from the Tahawus club informed him that President McKinley had suffered a dangerous relapse. He was leaning then upon his gun, and in his hunter's garb, standing like a silhouette against the glow of the sunset, he might have passed for a new Daniel Boone.

The Tahawus club has two houses, and he did not arrive at the lower lodge, which lies nearest the railroad, until past midnight. It was absolutely necessary to take a little rest and refreshment there, and it was 1:15 a. m. when he left on the journey to the railroad.

The night was almost impenetrable in its darkness, and the road was washed out with many gullies. Mr. Roosevelt has taken many journeys in the wilds of the Adirondacks, but probably none was more weird than this.

NEWS FROM THE BUSINESS WORLD

Clearings for this week, $501,706. Same time last year, $539,318.

The clearings for the week, for the first time this year, show a decrease over the same period for last year. This is no indication that business is lighter however as all lines of trade report much activity and the volume ahead of last year's. The demand for money is very good with some of the banks showing the biggest loan account in their history. Deposits are high but have suffered a loss the past week owing to the activity of funds.

The wholesale houses report very satisfactory trade with collections fair. The country stores are laying in good stocks of goods expecting a fine season on account of the good year the farmers have enjoyed. Reports are that the farmers are experiencing some trouble in finding room to store the large tobacco crop, and that they are using everything that has the semblance of being a house. This will make good business for every one throughout the section. The peddler trade of which local houses have a good deal, is buying freely, and reports the farmers demanding a better grade of goods than the country dealers handle.

The retail houses have had splendid trade on most lines the past week. The millinery houses, all, had their openings during the week bringing out crowds of shoppers. The Wild West show brought good crowds to town Thursday, and the trading was lively.

The canning company will shut down next week after very successful run.

Railroads and steamboats report very heavy business.

Miss and out, Mr. Ben Starr with Messrs. Gay and Watson, broke 23 straws and called it off on account of darkness. They divided the purse and the Paducahan received much praise for staying with the two crack shots, who had made good records.

Most of those who made such good scores were on their "own dunghill" which is quite an advantage.

The following members of the Paducah Gun club returned this morning from Louisville, where they participated in the events of the Louisville tournament: Mayor J. M. Lang, Messrs. W. E. Cochran, Hart, Brannagh, Moss and Ben Starr, George Robertson and Dr. P. H. Stewart.

The Paducah crowd did not do much, but yesterday in an extra event.
